Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

The truly wise man is conscious of his own imperfections, sins and faults. He carefully weighs his own shortcomings against those of his neighbors. The man who believes himself faultless is on his way to the psychopathic ward, or some such job as Hitler's. Bearing these things in mind the mayor's reproach of his fellow councilmen, published in Friday's issue, is approached with due caution.

The meat in the coconut is this: The law forbids any public officer, generally speaking, from using his public office to benefit himself. The mayor does not quote the law, but does express the same principle as it relates to moral responsibilities of those who sit on the city council. While it may be and indeed is pleaded that in a small community, it is impossible for a city council to refrain from any action for the public good that does not in some way bring individual members a benefit, the moral consideration involved is that he shall not take a pecuniary and immediate advantage due solely to the fact that he sits on the city council and is thus able to vote to himself this advantage. The law expressly forbids this practice making it a punishable offense. When two or more councilmen agree to swap advantages or special privilege, we have a situation in which the public inevitably suffers. The public servants have lost sight of the reason they were elected to office, namely to serve the public rather than themselves.

In small towns the city council is a cynosure of all eyes. Councilmen are neighbors and friends of all the citnzens, generally speaking, and aside from the violation of the law, members of the council who seek personal benefits from their office, violate their faith as good neighbors. Subterfuges are quickly spotted and rancor engendered as a result of petty selfseeking. A bad precedent is set and the community begins to view every candidate for office on such a council with distrust.

Nevada City Council for years has maintained a high standard of integrity. Its members serve as the mayor states, "with no expectation of reward exceut public commendation for a service well done." That is the standard that has been established and that standard the citizens of Nevada City will endeavor to maintain. If a majority consider that recent actions of the city council have lowered the standard, the remedy lies in the next municipal election.

Once more we make a plea for a city manager. We think the city has grown to a point where it requires too much time of the business men, who sit on the council, to give without remuneration. One capable head of city affairs, we are firmly convinced, would not only save the city money, but would also give it a far more efficient administration than five men, busy in their own affairs, can afford to give.

The council would employ one man, the manager, and he would employ the rest of the city's staff. On the manager's shoulders would rest the responsibility for carrying out each year a program of betterment for the entire city. With the city council would lie approval of each year's constructive program and the shaping of policies affecting the city's welfare. But the supervision, the "getting things done" would be squarely up to the city manager. There would then be no opportunity or temptation to depart from the standards of rectitude that have characterized our city government for so many years.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR TONY COSTA

Funeral services were held yesterday in the chapel at Holmes Funeral Home for the late Tony Costa. A large group of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to pay respects to a greatly loved father, husband and citizen. Banks of beautiful flowers attested the high esteem in which he was held. Several men who had known him from his youth came down from the mountains to attend the services. Pall bearers were Geo. and Andrew Carey, Thomas Williams, Dave Davis, Frank Ducotey, J. H. Pascoe.

DOVE STEWS ARE WELL ATTENDED

Two dove stews were held yesterday and throngs enjoyed delicious dinners and programs. The first one was given by the Grass Valley Sportsmans Club where there were plenty of the birds for everyone. Among prominent citizens present were Senator Jerrold Seawell of Roseville and Assemblyman Allan Thurman of Colfax, Clyde Gwin, Tahoe national forest. Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and Walter Butz assisted in preparing and serving the delicious stew. Music and a program were enjoyed.

Banner Grange served a dove stew on the Black ranch ten miles south of Grass Valley. A good program was rendered at this well attended dinner.

ENGINEER LEE GOES TO SHASTA

Forest Engineer W. P. Lee will be transferred to Shasta National Forest, effective October 15, according to DeWitt Nelson, supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest. He was stationed here for six years.

Nelson says the transfer was arranged in recognition of Lee's ability. The Shasta forest is receiving $450,000 for reconstruction of roads, telephone lines, and other requisites made necessary because certain areas in the forest will be flooded by waters backed up by the Shasta dam of the Central Valleys project. Lee's transfer was due to his abilities in that kind of work.

Forest Engineer John Mackey from Shasta forest will replace Lee here.

Lee will be stationed at Mt. Shasta City, headquarters of the Shasta national forest.

ELKS LODGE TO DINE THURSDAY EVENING

Nevada City Elks Lodge will start their fall dinner sessions Thursday by giving their first dinner in the club rooms. The committee on the program are the officers of the lodge. They are planning a program of entertainment and another of their famous dinners. The bowling alleys have been made ready and will be open for use. Cliff Merriam is Exalted Ruler.

YELLOW BADGE WEARERS PACK RESERVED SEATS

Nevada county's mineral display at the California State Fair was awarded three firsts and four seconds last week by the judges of the mineral and metals, this was a higher than the 1938 display scored.

The state's banner gold mining county was awarded first prizes for quartz gold specimens, silver ores and mill products and took second honors in: gravel gold specimens, lode gold ores; gold bearing gravels and telluride ores.

The golden yellow ribbons, worn by Nevada county citizens for Nevada County Day, were much in evidence about the state fair grounds. The large section of the grand stand reserved for the Nevada County group was packed, many stood in the aisle and still there were groups that could not get in.

PEARS STILL ROLLING

Nevada county pears are still being harvested and trucked to Colfax where they are packed for shipment to eastern markets. The packing plant at Chicago Park was closed Saturday evening and the one in Grass Valley earlier in the week. Nevada county pears were good this year and prices were the best in years.

Dick Bennett and Fred Diggles, who have spent the summer working in the Sixteen-to-One mine, have gone on a motor trip to Couer d' Alene, Idaho, where they will visit the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, largest silver-lead mine in the United States. On their return, Dick Bennett will resume his courses in Stanford where he is a senior student, and Fred Diggles will enter an aviation school.

RED CROSS OF NEVADA CITY CALLS MEETING

A meeting of the Nevada City Red Cross chapter has been called for next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the city hall. The meeting is called by Thos. McCraney, chairman of this chapter.

NEW PENALTIES FOR VIOLATORS OF TRAFFIC LAW

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 11.—Traffic laws add another powerful link, effective September 19, to the chain which is making evasion of court appearance for a traffic violation a serious matter. On and after that date, according to Chief E. R. Cato of the California highway patrol, drivers of motor vehicles who fail to appear in court and answer traffic violation citations will face additional severe penalties, including immediate suspension of their licenses.

To impress the necessity of appearing in court upon drivers who depend upon "tag fixers," "influence" or fictitious addresses to avoid warrant service, the legislature has decided a new penalty of $500 fine and six months in jail for driving a motor vehicle when licenses have been suspended.

A charge of failure to appear may also be added by the court, thus making it necessary for the driver cited to answer three violations of the vehicle code.

The new provision was included in the new laws becoming effective September 19, to give the California highway patrol a more effective weapon in dealing with a large class of drivers and chauffeurs who annually fail to appear in court.

Warrants previously were issued by courts for the arrest of motorists, who ignored a traffic citation for 15 days. Many thousand warrants gave addresses which were vacant lots, filling stations, or places where the wanted motorist was unknown. This practice of evading the law grew to such an extent that this large group of drivers cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars of unnecessary expense annually in an attempt to locate them.

"The legislature has given us a powerful weapon to meet this large group of drivers who fail to answer court citations," said Chief Cato, "and we are going to bear down hard upon them.

"Faked addresses and other devices used make service of warrants all but impossible should drop tremendously. In the future, drivers of motor vehicles who fail to appear and defend themselves will find that their driving privileges are automatically suspended 15 days after notice is received from the court to which they were cited.

"The California highway patrol will have a powerful weapon to use against motorists who now also must face the severe penalty of driving with a suspended license.

"Notice of the suspension is considered complete when it has been sent to the address of the violator as shown by our records.

"The saving to taxpayers will be considerable."

Lieutenant Warren C. Chapman left Friday morning for the bay region. He received his commission in the United States Army upon his graduation from West Point Military Academy June 12 of this year and was immediately assigned to the 30th Infantry of the regular army. Lieut. Chapman has been visiting with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Chapman in Nevada City while on furlough. He is to report Monday, September 11 at Presidio of San Francisco for active duty.

Miss Margaret Chapman, daughter of Allen Chapman and wife who has been spending her vacation in Nevada City with her grand parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Chapman, left Friday morning for the home of her parents in Alameda. She will attend school there this term. Her sister, Miss Marilyn Chapman, will remain in Nevada City and has enrolled in the local high school. All members of the Chapman family have graduated from the Nevada City high school and Miss Marilyn will complete her course here this term.

HUNTERS WARNED TO BEWARE FIRE

E. L. Stone, fire dispatcher in the forest service, stated today mimeographed letters are being passed out warning all hunters and smokers who enter the national forests between now and the first rains, to be careful of fire. Deer season opens Saturday, September 16 and it is expected large numbers of sportsmen will be in the mountains over the coming week end.

NEVADA CITY P. T. A. RESUMES MEETINGS

The Nevada City High School P. T. A. will hold its first fall meeting Thursday afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock. All members are invited to attend. A special invitation is issued to parents of the freshmen class and new comers to Nevada City. A short program is being prepared and a reception will be held for the teachers. Mrs. A. E. Deschwanden is president of the association.

WAR MEANS BAD SEASON FOR ALL COMMUNISTS

By CLEM WHITAKER

There's deadly bedlam, once again, on the Western Front—and America is just beginning to feel the first repercussions!

"Over there," machine guns rattle in fierce staccato, shrapnel shriek and heavy artillery blasts away at pill boxes and other strange fortifications that have replaced the trenches and dugouts which American boys found there in 1917.

Over there, this war begins much like the last. Stocks boom, prices climb. American neutrality is proclaimed, first American lives are lost at sea—and the President calls for a round up of spies and a clean up of subversive activities.

What the outcome will be so far as America is concerned no one can predict. Most Americans today, according to all reliable indications, are unalterably opposed to American participation again in European conflict—and the chances are probably better than even that the United States will stay out of the actual fighting.

But what will be the immediate impact of Europe's war on American economics and American politics?

One result, in the economic field, will doubtless be a strengthening of the demand for American goods (at least temporarily), with a gradually lessening relief load, a greater hum in industry and booming price levels. Some economists, however, disagree with that diagnosis—contending that the world is poorer today than in 1914 and can't buy American goods, at least in great quantity, even though it may need them.

Politically, the immediate results are ready of analysis: Franklin D. Roosevelt is the President of the United States in a period of emergency and great peril—not simply the Democratic standard-bearer, who may seek to defy precedent by asking a third term—And Mr. Roosevelt's chance, at least for the time being, are considerably brighter—but his job is the most difficult any American has had since silver haired Woodrow Wilson broke his health and his heart trying to save the world for Democracy.

Politically, the Earl Browders and the Fritz Kuhns are on the way out—with few to mourn them and with the United States Secret Service hot after them.

Politically, Communism, Fascism and all other "isms" are headed for trouble.

Politically, the Ham and Eggs pension scheme is in bad standing because of the militant support it has received from the Communist party and because of the campaign of class hatred which has been waged by its promoters.

Politically, the sun of the leftists is setting. America intends to keep the peace!

H. P. Davis, local mine engineer, received a telegram from his brother today, stating Mrs. H. P. Davis would arrive in New York on the Statendam Wednesday. When two days out from land the ship picked up sailors in a row boat from the first torpedoed English ship.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN TO OPEN SEASON WITH TEA

The Nevada County Unit of the American Association of University Women will open the fall term of activities with a tea at the home of Miss Margaret Rector on Saturday afternoon. The tea will be a program and social time. An election of president will be held. Preceding the tea a business meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Will Durbrow on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Beatrice Hoge is president of the club.

SCHOOL BUS TO START WEDNES.

While the new school bus has not yet arrived, a bus has been obtained and will start on its rounds next Wednesday morning. It will cover the Red Dog road as far as the Murchie mine, Willow Valley and Indian Flat. The driver is E. C. Peters, who drove the North San Juan bus last year.

Under an agreement with the people of North San Juan, the high school bus to that section is now running. The people of North San Juan and nearby communities offered to provide half the cost and the Nevada City school board agreed to foot half the bill. The cost of running the bus a year is $1,000.

The new school bus for the local area is expected within a week or ten days, according to Superintendent Kjorlie.

ALL HUNTERS TO BE VOLUNTARY FIRE OFFICERS

Every deer hunter a volunteer fire prevention officer. That is the dual role every stalker of the wary buck will fill this season, forestry officials hope. With the continuance of the abnormally dry season and frequent occurrence of fires, sportsmen in the vicinity of the Tahoe national forest began to ask: "Are you going to close the forest to hunting?" DeWitt Nelson, "Swede" to his friends — supervisor of the forest, never shot a deer in his life; but he is human and realized how thousands of sportsmen were looking forward to their "big week" and what a disappointment it was going to be if it was denied them. "They are human, too." he opined, "and maybe if they can be made to realize the great danger of fire, they can have their hunt in the woods and at the same time be cooperators in conservation, instead of being on the outside looking in."

He first broached his idea at a dinner meeting of sportsmen and conservationists at Auburn. He told how, while fishermen were responsible for more fires numerically each year than hunters, the fisherman was in the forest six months, the hunter only one month and, statistics show the hunter comparatively to be the greater risk. "That doesn't mean you intend to start fires," he said, "but just that some of you do not realize the extreme precautions necessary at this time of the year. We certainly can't take chances this year. Too much national wealth is at stake. If I leave the forest open this season, will all of you pledge yourselves to be allies in fire prevention?" "We will," they said. Nelson felt they indexed the sentiments of sportsmen in general; so he went to San Francisco and laid his proposition before his superiors. It found favor; and in a national broadcast George M. Gowen, chief of fire control for the California region, said that pledge cards, bearing the emblem of the Federal Forest Service and State Division of Forestry and the following wording, would be passed out to hunters and other forest users:

"I, the undersigned, hereby pledge to do all in my power to prevent the occurrence of fires in the forests and fields of California and to abide by all Federal, State and County fire laws and regulations. I further agree to advise all members of my party, as well as my friends, of these fire laws and to see that they abide by them. I also pledge myself to act as a Voluntary Fire Prevention Officer and to promtly report all fires seen to the nearest Federal, State or

TEN FIRES IN FIVE HOURS STARTED BY LIGHTNING

Thunder storms brought showers and lightning to the Tahoe national forest areas throughout the night and the storms are continuing today. The first lightning fire was reported to local headquarters at five o'clock this morning and by ten o'clock there were ten fires. The storms are on the west side. None are reported from the east side of Nevada state. Rain fell quite heavily in many spots from heavy clouds.

Some of the fires reported were two in Steep Hollow Creek area south of the King-Wolford saw mill; one in Michigan Bluff; two near Sawmill Lake and Bowman, Chalk Bluff, Iowa Hill and Government Springs.

At time of going to press this afternoon 29 fires were reported in to headquarters of the Tahoe National Forest in Nevada City. Fire fighters are sent out as the fires are spotted by lookouts and all fires are reported to be one half acre or less. Lightning storms continue throughout the western side of the forest.

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS GIVEN STIFF SENTENCES

During the past week there were two drivers brought into the city court on violations of Section 502 of the Vehicle Code (driving while intoxicated.) One defendant, Alvin O. Schanzenbach pleaded guilty and was fined $100, payable in installments. The other case was one in which M. W. Zuelsdorf pleaded guilty and due to extenuating circumstances was fined $50, also payable in installments.

The drivers license of both Schanzenbach and Zuelsdorf were suspended for the maximum period of six months by City Judge Miles D. Coughlin.

Another charge of driving over the Gault bridge with an excessive load of 3000 pounds over the lawful limit of three tons was heard. A fine of $7.50 was imposed.

The following traffic citations were heard:

For speeding—Dorothea Van Deventer, paid a fine of $5; James Barry, $10 and Raymond Neilson, $10.

For passing stop signs—Marion Alva Harris, paid a fine of $2.50; George Jacobs, same offense, $2.50; Lucy Ellen Harris, $2.50; George Martinson, $2.50; improper turn, Tom Glochie, $2.

LAST RITES FOR PIONEER OF SAN JUAN RIDGE

Funeral services for the late Ellen (Mother) Coughlan were held today from the Coughlan home at North Columbia. The cortege left the Catholic church at Cherokee, where at 10 o'clock this morning a Requiem Mass was said by Father O'Reilly. Interment was in the North San Juan cemetery under the direction of the Holmes Funeral Home.

County Ranger.

Hardly had the last word sped over the ether waves when calls began to come in for the cards, Nelson states. Both Federal and State forest officials are optimistic as to the outcome. "It's up to the hunters and other forest users now," they say, "whether we can leave hunting areas open during abnormal fire seasons."

The President Speaks

As nations go, the United States undeniably is the most tolerant country in the world. In normal times, we permit communists and other radicals to shout for the overthrow of American Democracy—and accord them both the courtesy of free speech and the civility of police protection. But even tolerance has a limit of endurance. President Roosevelt found it necessary the other day to issue this statement:

"I do hereby give notice that all nationals of the United States, and others who may claim the protection of this government, who may misconduct themselves in the premises, will do so at their peril, and that they can in no wise obtain any protection from the Government of the United States against the consequences of their misconduct!"

Those ringing words should re-echo throughout California, where at this very time the spearhead of the American communist movement is seeking to smash the American economic system, by fighting tooth and nail for the so-called 30-Thursday proposition. Communist leaders are for the scheme. as they frankly admit. because they know it is "abortive and unworkable." They are willing to help delude a million trusting old people into voting their own ruin—in order that the flood of fantastic "funny money" warrants will destroy real pensions, wreck business, increase unemployment and bankrupt the State government.

No one can blame the old folks who have been persuaded by false argument that such a Utopian fallacy is feasible. But surely they should take warning before they make common cause with Communists whose whole political thesis is American economic failure. Democrats and Republicans alike will agree it is well that the President has spoken, so emphatically in a plea for American sanity at this time. And it will be well for California to answer just as positively—to refuse to endorse disorderly schemes which it seems this State's peculiar lot to have intermittently thrust upon it.—Contributed.

Moratorium On Insanity

In a 50-word paragraph from Paris, buried in the flood of war news, comes a story of gallantry and utter pathos. It tells of the departure for home of young German reservists—of their parting from young Frenchmen, their fast friends. The Frenchmen did not say "Adieu," which means "goodbye," but said "Au revoir," which means "Till we meet again." And the Germans replied "Auf Weidersehn," which also means "Till we meet again." Meet again on the battlefield to kill and maim and gas one another—to murder friends! Meet again, one scant generation after the insanity of the ghastly, costly World War, from which the world has by no means yet recovered, and from which all suffered and none profited!

Perhaps all that can save this world is declaration of a moratorium, a moratorium that must be made permanent, on all the public insanities that have plunged mankind into disaster. In Europe, at present, that seems impossible—for now. in molding whole nations into war machines, governments are censoring newspapers, radios, and speeches. But here in America, where a free press can slash through the propaganda and report the truth—however fearful and depressing the facts may be, citizens may recoil from the sheer evidence of international insanity and remain on solid emotional ground.

That "The truth shall make you free" has never been more evident than today. Full knowledge of war's frightfulness, as it unfolds, is the best defense of the American people against the insanity of war. And our moratorium on such insanity may hold the torch of peace as an example for a bleeding world when the carnage finally comes to its end.—Contributed.

The Obligation

(San Francisco Argonaut, August 25, 1939)

Since the earliest days of this country public-spirited citizens have been pleading with citizens not so public-spirited to avail themselves of the fundamental right of the ballot. The procedure of government is intended to represent the opinion of the majority, but the occasions have been numerous when indifference on the part of so many has reduced this opinion to that of the minority. It is a notorious fact that those who are most unwilling to express their legal opinion at the polls are the most willing to express disfavor with the policies of those in whose election they evinced no interest. On November 7, California will hold a special election to determine whether or not the Retirement Life Payments Association ("Ham and Eggs") will be allowed to incorporate their ruinous amendment in the State Constitution. The first obligation of a citizen in this state is to register before the deadline of September 28, the second is to vote on November 7. The third obligation, and the one so important to the future of California. is to vote in opposition to an insane measure that is dangerous because it will corrupt the very essentials of American governmental principle and cruel because it is deluding hundreds of thousands of sincere but misguided voters. To register is properation, to vote is an obligation of citizenship, and to vote against this amendment is an act of intelligence and patriotism.

MRS. CHARLES MYERS.

TEACHERS ASSN. FIGHTS 30 THURS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Directors of the California Teachers Association, meeting here in semi-annual session today, went on record with an emphatic declaration against the Ham and Eggs measure on the special election ballot November 7. The association made an intensive campaign against the measure last year, cooperating with other statewide organizations that are opposing it.

In announcing the action of the association, of which John F. Brady, chief deputy superintendent of schools of this city is president, executive secretary Roy W. Cloud said:

"Insofar as the effect of the 'Ham and Eggs' plan, or the Retirement Warrants Act, on the public schools there is little difference between the Act now to be voted on and the Act repudiated by the people last year.

"The crux of the whole proposal is the requirement that the state and all public agencies must accept retirement warrants in payment of the taxes and all other obligations.

"After the issuance of these script warrants our public treasuries will be flooded with them. It is immaterial whether teachers or all other public employes are given the option of accepting the warrants, because within a comparatively short period of time, should the Thirty Thursday amendment be adopted, there will be only life compensation warrants for the payment of all public school expenses.

"The use of warrants to pay taxes and other obligations due the state, school districts, and other public agencies means that the funds of these departments, represented by lawful money, will disappear and be supplemented by script. It is questionable whether creditors of these agencies will accept script. They will demand lawful money and our entire tax and credit structure stands then on the brink of collapse.

"The act should be voted down more decisively than was the plan submitted last fall."

Dedicated to the care and welfare of disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans, the V. F. W. also sponsors a nationwide program of youth and Americanism activities, conducts a vigorous program of organized opposition to un-American activities and subversive propaganda, and sponsors a national welfare program, which includes among its objectives an adequate national defense, American neutrality in disputes between other nations and legislative enactment to "take the profit out of war."

ELKS ANNUAL MEET IN SANTA MONICA SEPT. 14

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 11. — Indicative of the interest in the "advance registration" system worked out for the first time for this year's 25th annual convention of California Elks association, to be held here Sept. 14, 15 and 16 is the unusually heavy response from all parts of the state, it is announced by Owen Keown, general convention chairman for Santa Monica Lodge No. 906, host organization.

An innovation at this year's state conclave, the new system is the idea of Marshall Hickson, registration committee chairman, and enables members of all lodges in the state who are planning to attend the conclave to file their registrations before actual arrival here. In this manner, Hickson explains, it will be possible for delegates to receive badges, credentials and courtesy cards immediately upon arrival here, thus eliminating much unnecessary delay.

Hickson points out that formal registration, whether made in advance or at the scene of the convention, will be necessary before delegates can receive the credentials and courtesy cards which will allow them free admission to many attractions planned for their entertainment.

Even now incomplete, San Francisco's advance registration totals well over 150, Hickson said, while other Elks Lodges in various sections of the state have sent in advance registrations as follows: Richmond, 35; San Pedro, 270; Pasadena, 175; Monrovia, 175; San Diego, 100; San Bernardino, 75; Needles, 35; Grass Valley, 15; Petaluma, 25; Santa Rosa, 40.

Advance hotel reservations also are arriving in great numbers each day, according to John Boggs, housing committee chairman. He advises Elks planning on attending the convention that early letters setting forth what is desired in the way of accomodations will insure full satisfaction.

Robert Livingston, an American statesman; born in New York, November 27, 1746. He was graduated at King's College (now Columbia) in 1765 and practiced law with great success. In 1775 he became a member of the Continental Congress and was one of the committee to prepare the Declaration of Independence. In 1781 he was appointed Secretary of Foreign Affairs and in 1788 he took part in the state convention of New York which adopted the Constitution. In 1801 he was made minister to France and promoted the purchase of Louisiana. He assisted Fulton in the perfection of steam navigation and introduced merino sheep into America. He died February 26, 1813.

Unique among the philanthropic projects of the country is the V. F. W. National Home for the orphans of war veterans, established at Eaton Rapids, Mich., in 1925. At this home, which is maintained on a cottage-unit plan, more than 200 orphans of American war veterans are at present being cared for by the comrades of their deceased fathers.

A great many people do not realize the seriousness of the responsibility of driving an automobile. Suppose an engineer of a passenger train would run his train the way some of the motorists drive their cars.

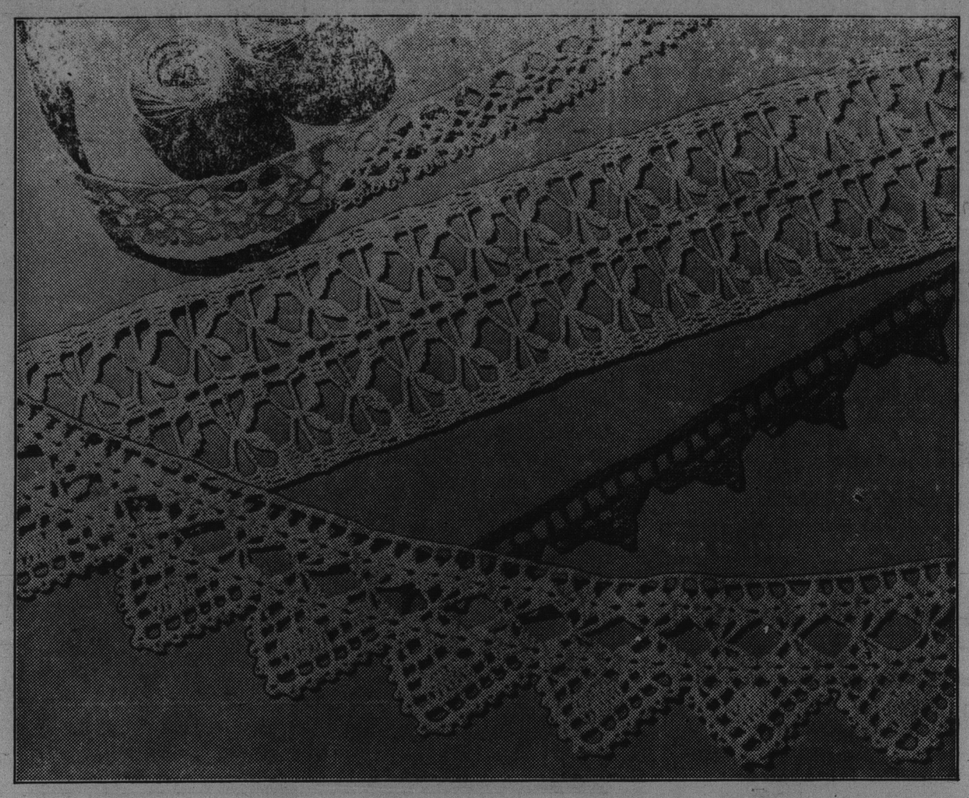
Class For Edgings In National Crochet Contest



A FAVORITE type of handwork with many crocheters is the making of fine edgings for household linens and personal accessories. Good news to them is the fact that a special class for edgings and insertions will be included in the Third National Crochet Contest which will name the Third National Crochet Champion and forty "ranking crocheters" this fall. The edgings shown above are especially luxurious for fine linens, and are typical of those that will compete in the contest. Directions for crocheting them, and details of The National Crochet Contest may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The National Crochet Bureau, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Specify edging No. 8347.

COLLEGE OFFERS COOKING COURSE

Most cooking teachers are so full of scientific information on quantities, calories, and procedure, that they forget cooking can also be fun, according to Ruth Parish Casa Emellos of Columbia University's Teachers College, who this week began a demonstration course to show thirty three teachers visiting the summer session how to concoct new and interesting dishes.

Mrs. Casa Emellos has made a hobby of collecting and experimenting with curious herbs and seasonings which she scours the city's foreign market to procure. Many of them, however, are available in even the smallest town she points out, but are overlooked because people don't know or forget about them. "Thyme and anis," she suggests "will give zest to familiar dishes. Saffron is an old fashioned flower which when dried and added to the sauce, or cooked into rice, gives an entirely new and interesting flavor."

Mrs. Casa Emellos does more than lecture and talk about her recipes. With the assistance of one of her students she prepares several dishes during each class period, and by the end of the two hours has platters of steaming savoury concoctions for everyone to sample.

Two members of the class are men, who take an active interest in the proceedings. One is studying hotel management; the other, a physics major, is taking the course to learn at first hand the relation of science to cookery.

J. D. Rafferty, forest law enforcement officer, returned Saturday evening from the Las Padras national forest near Santa Barbara. There have been a lot of fires in that forest and he was transferred there to work on them.

EYES ARE SLOW TO COMPLAIN about overwork or abuse, science tells us, slow to object to poor light. Thus by the time eyes do speak out, they have been strained, perhaps injured. That is why we say, "light conditioning for better seeing." For light conditioning means giving the eyes enough of the right kind of light for seeing comfort and safety.
Do you know why, for example, you sometimes squint or scowl when reading a newspaper? It is because your eyes are working hard to see. It takes three times as much light to read a newspaper with the same ease as you read a well-printed book.
Take these two steps for light conditioning in your home. Have a Light Meter checkup made of the lighting. There is no charge or obligation for this service. Then try the soft and glareless light from I. E. S. Better Sight Lamps. You'll find the cost surprisingly low, especially since electricity under the new reduced rates now costs less than ever.
